HONE YOUR SKILLS IN FINDING FEDERAL JOBS

Free Book Discussion March 18 at Barnes & Noble in Rockville

Rockville, MD – March 2, 2010– The federal government is and will continue to be an oasis of hiring, filling more than 200,000 secure, well-paying jobs every year, despite the dreadful economy. And knowing how to pursue these government jobs is an important career skill. To promote successful job searches, federal employment expert Lily Whiteman will discuss her book “How to Land a Top-Paying Federal Job” on March 18 at 7:30 p.m. at Barnes & Noble in Rockville, 12089 Rockville Pike in the Montrose Crossing shopping center. The free book talk is co-sponsored by Barnes & Noble and Employment and Career Services at JSSA (Jewish Social Service Agency) in Rockville.

Whiteman has been a federal hiring manager, career coach, and writer for more than 15 years. Her articles and columns have appeared in the Washington Post and Federal Times. Whiteman’s book explains how to find openings, impress hiring managers, negotiate a top-dollar salary and accelerate your advancement, whether you are seeking your first federal job or a promotion. The book simplifies every step of the job process in a motivating, practical style including proven tips, stories and humor.

Employment and Career Services at JSSA offers job search groups for networking, workshops with top speakers to empower the job seeker, a two-day Job Search Boot Camp, and career coaching and assessments. JSSA is a private, nonprofit community agency serving people of all religious backgrounds, races and ethnicities throughout greater Washington. More information is available at www.jssa.org.
